Why would Christ's metaphors for eating His flesh and drinking His blood been so repellant to His audience?

Why were the crowds at this time chasing after Jesus?

What was the point Jesus was trying to make through these graphically vivid metaphors?

What was Christ's response to the crowds once they caught up to Him?

Where do you find your focus — on life now or on the life to come? Is this a struggle in your spiritual life?

How did the crowd show their misunderstanding by asking Jesus what they must do to do the works God requires?

How often do you think about eternal life? How often do you think about what awaits you in heaven? What do you look forward to in heaven the most? How does it compare to the things you value in this life?

What did Jesus identify as the work God requires?
